JVNW, Inc. was established in January 1981 to manufacture stainless steel vessels for the food-processing, beverage, pharmaceutical, pure water, and high tech industries.

Today, the company manufactures a wide variety of innovative vessels; smart mix tanks with custom agitators, vessels that feature computerized processing controls, and processing systems such as their very popular craft brewing systems. They are in the process of patenting their new self-cleaning mixer impeller the Sani-foil “The common denominator of our products is our craftsmanship in stainless steel,” says company president Don Jones.

JVNW is one of very few privately held companies of its kind in the United States. Customers are given such VIP service that return customer rate is over 80%. Recent customers who have had custom mixers designed for their new products are “Nestles” for their Good Start baby formula and “Tropicana” for their orange juice with pulp.
